SOME OF THE NEW LAWS.

Statutes That Became Effective the First of This Week:

The use of fire balloons is no longer allowed.

Insurable insanity is made a ground for divorce through proceedings in the superior court.

Every manufacturing company is required to keep "first aid" emergency kits in its work rooms.

License fees or taxes of one cent a square foot will be charged hereafter on all billboard advertisements.

The employment of children less than 16 years old is prohibited in a number of hazardous and unhealthy occupations.

All prisoners may be required to do work upon highways, bridges and other property of the county in which they are imprisoned.

All steam locomotives are required to be equipped with effective spark arresters and ash pans to prevent fires along their lines.

The State Board of Health is now authorized to furnish antitoxin and vaccine lymph for persons who are unable or too poor to buy them.

Home-rule bills permit cities, towns and boroughs to enact certain laws and change their charters without going to the legislature for permission, as in the past.

The liberty and freedom of fishy bulls two years old or older is curtailed and that they must be under the control of keepers or kept in properly enclosed fields.

All trolley cars equipped with air-brakes are to have stools for the unrestricted use of motormen, except when operating within one mile of the center of any city.

School buildings may be devoted, outside of school hours, to meetings of a public or educational, or for political discussions, upon permission of school boards.

A new crime, termed aggravated assault, has been defined, with maximum penalties of $500 fine or three years' imprisonment. It is assault with a dangerous weapon.

Relative may prevent the sale of liquor to any person by notifying the proper authorities that he is excessively addicted to the use of liquor.

The authorities may then notify liquor dealers and forbid the sales.

All sales of dangerous weapons, such as brass knuckles and revolver, must be registered, and the names and addresses of purchasers transmitted to the police authorities within 24 hours of sale.

The much discussed and frequently amended school physicians bill requires towns of more than 10,000 population to appoint towns of less population to appoint school physicians, provided examinations of female children shall be made by women physicians, or in the presence of the children's parents or a female nurse.

Mosques in Constantinople have been converted into hospitals to shelter the wounded.

PARIS DISAPPOINTED

IN FALL OF WARSAW.

Paris, Aug. 6.—While the fall of Warsaw had been discounted here some time ago, the delay in the capture of the city had given rise to the hope that the Polish capital might be saved and its occupation by the Germans is something of a disappointment to the French public.

The military necessities dictating the abandonment of the city are fully recognized but it also is realized that the Germans will claim a great victory from which the people of that country will derive much encouragement. The press points out, however, that the victory is not decisive because the Russian army remains intact.

Foreign built vessels admitted to American registry from Aug. 18, 1914, to July 31, last, totalled 150.
